" P 6(a) Marked portion in P 6 (in Mr. G.K.Balija's application).

Order.

In this case Mr. B. D. Naidu contends that the election of Mr. G. K. Balija by the Balija Sangha to the Representative Assembly is invalid and should therefore be set aside.

2. The petitioner had made Mr. B. V. Ramaswami Chetty the President of the Sangha the 2nd opponent. I held that he could not be brought into the case except as witness as under Government Order No.P.-400 Legis.12-3-37 dated 7th November 1936 an objection petition ~~petition~~ can be filed only against a person who has been declared to have been elected by a constituency and not against an office bearer of the Association. Upon this the petitioner examined Mr. Ramaswami Chetty as his first witness.

3. Mr. Balija took a preliminary objection to my hearing this objection petition. He contended that in the absence of clear rules, as in the case of the Legal Interest ~~University~~ constituency or the Mysore as to which Deputy Commissioner should enquire into such objection petitions I could not not entertain this for want of jurisdiction. I overruled the objection and held that the headquarters of the Palija Sangham being at Bangalore I have jurisdiction to try the case under the Government Order quoted in the preceding para. No appeal was preferred against this decision.

4. The Palija Sangha has on its rolls 116 members of whom only five or six know English. Two of these were examined as parties and two as witnesses. In their examination they have, all, admitted that none of them had read the rules and instructions issued by Government for the conduct of such elections. The President ~~xxx~~ admitted that not only had he not read the rules but that none of the members knew them.

5. In these circumstances it is small wonder that through ignorance those responsible for the election violated every rule and instruction issued by the Government. I must say that there was no fraud misrepresentation or ~~contempt~~ corrupt practice in the proceedings.

6. In the memo of instructions issued by Government the first is that the managing Committee of the Association should fix the time and date of the meeting to be held for the purpose of the election, publish on the notice boards of the Association and communicate, the same to all the members by letter. The President and the Secretary (the opponent) have admitted that the Managing Committee did not meet to fix the date and time and that the notice appointing the same was not affixed on the notice Board of the Sangha or communicated by letter to the members. A memo was circulated but the notice was so short that only 59 members received the intimation and 39 including non-members voted.

7. The opponent - the Secretary of the Sangha - says why when the notice was issued by his Assistant, with the result that he (Secretary) did not receive any of the applications within the time (two days) fixed under instruction 2.

8. The names of the persons intending to stand as candidates were not put up on the notice board of the Sangha as required by instruction No. 3.

9. It

9. It is admitted by all that the voting papers were filled in by the Members openly before each other without any secrecy and that voting was not by ballot as required by instruction No. 4.

10. Two members of the Sangha were not appointed to Assistant the President as required by instruction No.5.

11. The voting papers were not prepared in accordance with instruction No.6. They were neither signed by the President nor did they contain the names of the candidates or the instructions as to the manner in which votes were to be recorded.

12. A voting box was not provided as required by instruction No.7. - the opponents' "Bahadur Cap" being used for the collecting the voting "slips" on which the voters had written the names of the candidates in whose favour they voted. These voting - slips did not contain the signatures of either the President or the voters.

13. The President, as the Polling Officer, ~~counted~~ counted the slips and wrote down the names of the candidates and the votes secured by them. But he did not as required by instruction No.6, secure the voting slips in a sealed cover at the time and submit his report over the signatures of his helpers and himself. It appears that some members did help him in counting the votes. But it is not clear who they were.

14. This does not exhaust the list of irregularities committed at the time. Rule 13 of the Sangha Rules states that all donors are not members. Rule 44 of the same rules lays down that no change in the rules can be made unless it is proposed and carried out - after a notice of one month by the general body. In spite of this the general body resolved at the time on the spur of the moment that donors who had given Rs 100 and above should be treated as members for the purpose of voting at that election. It was admitted that five or six donors exercised the right. On asking for a list of donors I was told that there was no such list and that it could not therefore be definitely stated whether those who exercised the right of voting had given a donation of Rs 100 or more. It is on record that one Venkatramappa who denied that he was a member member was made to record his vote.

15. An illiterate lady who is said a member is said to have given her vote. All the slips before me are written up. It is not known who wrote her slip.

16. Apart from these material irregularities some still more serious ones were committed. I shall recount only one. Not only were non-members allowed to be present and to influence the members but were allowed to vote. As the voting slips do not bear the signatures of the voters it is difficult to say how many outsiders took part in the election.

17. In the result I hold that the election of Mr. G. K. Balija to the Representative Assembly is invalid.

18. A copy of this order together with the records will be submitted to the Government for information.

Pronounced in open Court.
